Tuesday, December 31, - - 1901

Once a Week.

Beginning with the next issue, Jan. 8, The New and Herald will be issued once a week, every Wednesday. This change has been under advisement for several months, and the reduction in the number of issues is made in preference to an increase in the subscription price which would appear to any that this is a backward step, it should be borne in mind that more than five-sixths of the county papers of the State are published but once a week, and we are firmly persuaded that the change will enable us to give our patrons a better paper in every way. We pledge our best efforts to this end.

Historian Maclay was not protected by the civil service laws and so was summarily dismissed without further procedure.

Now that the proposed bonds have been floated, they got in the swim in Saturday's rain—it is not probable that the matter will come up again soon.

The attorney general has begun action against the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company on the ground that it is operating contrary to the anti-trust laws of this State.

The Southern Educational Association, which met in Columbia last week, was a decided success in the character of the teachers present and the work done if not in numbers. Columbia did itself proud in their entertainment.

We have disposed of the Carolina Teachers' Journal which we have published the past few years to McGhee and Davis. Columbia. This will give us more time for work on The New and Herald, which we hope to make better as a result of thus having the more time to give to it.

SOUTH CAROLINA COLLEGE REIN-NISCENCES.

year we were surprised to hear that W. C. Bryant, on his way to visit W. Gilmore Simms, had spent a night on our campus. But he came and went, his presence being unknown to the students. Dr. Dionysius Lardner, of England, Baron von Raumer, the historian, from Germany, and the Hon. Henry Clay visited Columbia in our senior year.

And now let "narrative old age" claim its privilege. In 1854

(December) Mr. J. L. Petigru delivered in the new chapel a historical address, commemorating the opening of the college fifty years before.

In the following June, when called on to deliver an inaugural lecture, at the close of the first year's exercises in Wofford College, I alluded to that celebration. The manuscript which was before me then has been unopened for many years. It lies before me now and I venture to copy the closing sentences. They express the feelings with which the armor was put on for college work. Now, as the time draws near when that armor must be put off I repeat these words as the fervent wish of my heart for our native State, her College and colleges:

"It is cheering to see how many minds are turned towards the great subject of education. Our own little Commonwealth never before contained so many institutions held is not so crowded that the laborers must turn their weapons against each other. There is room, there is work, for all. There is room for the State College, who seems lately to have renewed her youth, while celebrating her fiftieth anniversary. Fifty years hence, when some old graduate of Wofford College may lean upon his staff to tell another generation about our beginning, I hope then the State College may be entering upon the hundredth year of its existence with all the marks of age, except its weakness. There is room for the institutions of another name and faith. Every building, reared by whatever hands, that may rise, dedicated to the great work of religious instruction, shall but draw from our hearts the fraternal benediction. 'For our brethren and companions' sake we will now say, peace be within thee.' It will at once meet the wishes of Benjamin Wofford and fill our own ambition if we can help them to furnish what our age and country greatly need and must have, thoroughly educated, conscientious men. Let us all who touch the educational interests of our State at any point, whether at that school which is first in time and first in influence, the fireside, or at the academy or college—let us all aim at this, and then, with the blessing of Heaven, whatever storms may sweep over the forests of the earth, the palmetto shall stand as a 'tree, planted by the rivers of water.'

Crosbyville Items.

The year 1801 is fast coming to a close. While it has not been as prosperous as was expected, we have a great deal to be thankful for.

The cold weather has killed out the oat crop to a considerable extent.

The short crops and hard times have not checked the matrimonial train. Mr. Thos. Carter and Miss Bessie Boulware were married by W. W. Crosby, Notary Public, on the 15th inst.

Mr. Walter Wishert of Crosbyville and Miss Janie Cain of Carlisle were married by Rev.

D. A. Swindler on the 18th inst. Mr. L. T. Wishert of Crosbyville and Miss Ella Bigham of Chester are to be married tomorrow morning and will leave for the Charleston exposition.

Mrs. Etta Kerr of Rock Hill is visiting friends in Crosbyville.

Messrs. Charlie Colvin, Jas. Guthrie, Oriel Wishert and Curtis E. Crosby arrived home on the 19th inst. from the S. C. C. Institute in Edgefield to spend Christmas. Oriel Wishert is confined to his bed with typhoid fever. His friends wish him a speedy recovery so that he can enjoy his vacation.

Crosbyville is now connected with Chester, Union and Winnsboro by telephone. We have a line direct from Crosbyville to Chester (seventeen miles) without a phone on it, and there is a line from Crosbyville to Union without a phone, only one switchboard to pass through. We have a switchboard at Crosbyville with eight phones coming into it.

I will close wishing The News and Herald a pleasant Christmas and a prosperous New Year. Dec. 23, 1901. C.

A. J. Snwell anted to attend a party, but was afraid to do so on account of pains in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was telling my troubles to a lady friend, who said: Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will put you in and out of the party." I bought a bottle and take pleasure in stating that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Summer Hill, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by McMaster Co.

Bryant and Longtown.

Xmas has been rather dull down this way. We have heard much of hard times, and while our condition is not the best, we are tired of hearing so much talk about the hardness of the times, especially in view of the many things we have to be grateful for. We should face the future rather than the past, confidently looking upon the brightest side at all times.

Mrs. L. R. Boyd, of Ridgeway, visited relatives here and in Longtown recently.

Miss Stella Rosboro spent several days with Mrs. E. P. Scott during the past week.

Mr. O. C. Duke and his daughters, Mary and Myrtle, and Miss Mary families of Messrs. R. and S. L. Dixon.

Miss Fannie Lee Ford is spending the holidays with her parents at Mitford.

Miss Estelle Harrison and Carrie Wilds, who have been attending school at All Healing, N. C., are at home for the holidays.

Miss Sue Dixon, of Rossville, and Mr. David Dixon, of Glades Grove, are visiting the families of Messrs. J. D. and W. I. Harrison.

Mr. Brum Reeves is spending the holidays at home.

Mr. Jno. A. Tidwell, who has been living at Hopkins during the past year, is again at home.

Miss Alice Jenkins, of Columbia, is visiting the family of Mr. W. J. Seigler.

There was a party at Mr. R. A. Hudson's last night.

Mr. Albert and Cuttino Mellichamp, of the Edgefield Co-Educational Institute, are at home for the holidays.

Miss Jennie Gladden is visiting relatives at Winnsboro.

Mr. Strother Ford, of Asa, visited the family of Mr. W. A. Peay recently.

Mr. Jack Robinson and family moved to Chester last week.

Messrs. Broom and Robinson visited the family of Mr. Wm. Simpson during the past week.

Favor the Bonds.

Mr. Editor: It is with regret that I learn of the seeming failure of the proposed plan for the relief of the suffering poor, and at the same time improve our public highways, but 'tis ever thus: "The best laid plans of mice and men Gang aft a-gley."

There is a grave crisis just before us, a winter that promises to be prolonged and severe, a people without employment, and none to be had, and little good and other comforts for the future. I, sir, have seen hungry faces—good, honest, worthy citizens. It is a mistake that some make who say "It is only those good-for-nothing ones who would not work, and deserve to starve." No, sir, it is the deserving ones and should be helped, and what better or fairer assistance could be given them than the plan offered, viz.: To give them employment, and at the same time, start the very much needed work of improving our public roads.

Allow me to say here that I was at first opposed to the measure when it was first announced, but I studied the situation and after hearing from the first meeting had in Winnsboro, was convinced of the sincerity of the gentlemen, men of large hearts, and I believe in them. It is a mistake to judge men and measures too severely; it is an outcome of ignorance, narrowness and youth. It has been a failing of mine, and I want to here publicly confess it, but as age has tempered my ideas,

"I say not man's a villain, all The real hardened wicked Who have no check but human laws Are to a few restricted."

No, Mr. Editor, there is a benevolent spirit abroad, every man is trying to do something for his poorer neighbor. Our merchants are losing heavily, but they are showing the same generous spirit, "To live and let live;" they have called forth my admiration. It is therefore, unfortunate that the public seem to mistrust this the plan proposed.

M. Mellichamp.

How to Get a Set of Dishes Free.

We take pleasure in announcing to our many friends and customers the fact that we have just closed a contract with one of the largest potteries in the United States to furnish us with decorated China, which we intend giving away absolutely free of cost.

As we are always on the lookout for new trade, as well as being extremely desirous of pleasing our old customers, we have decided that the best way of showing our appreciation of both is by giving away a complete set of China ware to each of our cash customers.

We will guarantee to sell all goods as cheap, and no cheaper, than ever before, and with each cash purchase will issue coupons representing the amount of your purchase. When your coupons reach specified amounts, you are entitled to different dishes, such as dinner plates, pie plates, hand-somely decorated cups and saucers, exquisite designs in covered dishes, bakers, orange bowls, sauce dishes, water jugs, tea pots, and in fact, everything that goes to constitute a complete set of dishes. It is worth your while to call and see the bargains we are offering.
